LADRILLO & MURALLA COLLECTION

A refined exploration of texture, structure, and architectural influence, the Ladrillo & Muralla Collection draws from the enduring character of traditional masonry. Inspired by brickwork, stone walls, and built surfaces shaped over time, the collection translates these elements into a contemporary material language suited to modern spaces.

Each tile is designed to emphasise depth, proportion, and surface variation. Subtle irregularities and tonal shifts echo the authenticity of natural materials, while controlled finishes ensure a clean and consistent overall look. This balance allows the collection to feel both grounded and refined — expressive without being overwhelming.

Through the contrast of linear rhythm and sculptural texture, Ladrillo and Muralla offer two distinct yet complementary approaches to surface design. Whether used to create quiet, structured backdrops or bold architectural statements, the collection brings a sense of permanence and intention to any setting.

Developed for versatility, these tiles transition seamlessly between interior and exterior applications, adapting to residential, commercial, and hospitality environments with ease. The result is a collection that supports both subtle detailing and large-scale impact, depending on how it is applied.

MURALLA BLANCO

Muralla Blanco is defined by its soft, cool-toned palette, combining shades of white and light grey to create a clean and balanced surface. Subtle tonal variation runs across each tile, adding depth without disrupting the overall uniformity.

The textured face gently catches light, creating a refined interplay of highlights and shadows that shifts throughout the day. This gives the surface a sense of movement while maintaining a calm and understated appearance.

Its lighter colour makes it particularly effective in opening up spaces, enhancing brightness while still delivering the tactile quality of a structured wall finish.

Details:

- Light white and soft grey tones
- Subtle variation for a natural effect
- Textured surface with gentle depth
- Matte finish
- Consistent, clean appearance when installed

Use:

Ideal for modern interiors, minimalist spaces, bathrooms, kitchens, and feature walls where a lighter, more open feel is desired.

MURALLA LEON

Muralla Leon introduces a richer, more varied palette, blending warm beige, sand, and muted rust tones. The surface carries a weathered character, with natural-looking variation that gives each installation a unique and grounded appearance.

Its deeper colour range enhances the texture of the tile, creating stronger contrast between light and shadow. This results in a more dynamic surface that adds visual weight and presence to any space.

The overall effect is warm and architectural, making it well suited to environments where texture and tone play a central role in the design.

Details:

- Blend of beige, sand, and soft rust tones
- Pronounced tonal variation
- Textured, sculpted surface
- Matte, natural finish
- Rich, layered appearance

Use:

Perfect for feature walls, façades, commercial spaces, hospitality settings, and interiors where a warmer, more character-driven surface is required.

Ladrillo & Muralla

The Ladrillo & Muralla Collection brings together texture, structure, and material expression in a format designed for contemporary environments. Drawing from the character of traditional masonry and reinterpreting it through a modern lens, the collection focuses on the relationship between surface, light, and proportion. Subtle tonal variation and carefully developed textures give each tile a natural, composed appearance, allowing surfaces to feel both refined and grounded. As light moves across the tiles, it enhances depth and shadow, creating a quiet sense of movement that adds dimension without overwhelming the space. This balance makes the collection suitable for both understated applications and more defined architectural features.

Designed with versatility in mind, Ladrillo & Muralla can be used seamlessly across interior and exterior settings, supporting continuity throughout a project. The consistent format allows for a cohesive design language, while the variation in colourways provides flexibility to adapt to different environments and styles.

Whether used in residential, commercial, or hospitality spaces, the collection offers a durable and considered surface solution. It is intended to shape spaces with clarity and intention, providing a foundation that feels both timeless and adaptable.
